A brief write up about yourself (not more than 200 words, a separate sheet may be attached):	My association with this industry is a winding journey that I still continue to traverse, that dawned on a day 4 decades past. Every year has brought a new challenge to conquer, a new mile stone to reach. I have seen the days when this sector was a hodge podge of players vying in vain; I have been lucky to be part of the team that founded, GJC and still contributes to the industry by being part of its initiatives. I believe that, in today's volatile world, where innovations happen and disrupt industries in blink of an eye, we need the technological acumen to take this industry forward. By investing in technology and creating state of the art facilities in every facet of our work, we can create a culture where both the businessmen and artisans can thrive and grow. My hobby is traveling and since I'm fond of wild life, I visit places where nature is bountiful and beautiful.
Your plans, or your manifesto for GJC and industry (not more than 200 words, a separate sheet may be attached):	From its conception, GJC has acted as the voice of the industry. But I still feel more could be done. Every year compliances are getting more complex and costs associated with are climbing higher, which can be mitigated by concepts like, ethical manufacturing and self certification. I believe, 45 years I have spent from grassroots levels to the top, I have earned unique insights to the practical issues faced by the industry. By representing these issues effectively to the government, we can take this industry to new heights. I promise to make effective dialogue with all the stakeholders and will seek every opportunity available to promote our industry.
