A brief write up about yourself (not more than 200 words, a separate sheet may be attached):	Born in 1955 in Vadnagar, Gujarat, Shri Shantibhai Patel shifted to Ahmedabad at the age of 6. Showing the virtue of hard work from the very young age, he started earning for his family through work like newspaper delivery and rickshaw driving. He started his journey in Jewellery Industry with a small job in a jewellery company way back in 1972. In 1975, he forayed into his own jewellery business and earned high reputation in jewellery market with his dedication, hard work and vision. Achieving fame in business was not all that he had desired. Being a man of larger perspectives and high values, he wanted to put his efforts to the betterment of the whole jewellery industry and not just his own business. This desire led him to work for the people in jewellery industry through various activities, offering a selfless help to those in need and reaching out to authority for the development of the Industry. He is a visionary who always aims for the development, advancement and transformation. His contribution for social causes is no less. Being the member of various organizations, he always makes sure to help the needy in the best possible way.
Your plans, or your manifesto for GJC and industry (not more than 200 words, a separate sheet may be attached):	Having a vast experience in Gem and jewellery industry, I can be a valuable asset for GJC. Craftsmen are the roots of this industry and my emphasis would be to highlight the unique craftsmanship lying within the industry. I will make sure that Micro, small and medium industry players are well aware of the government policies and will also help them take the advantages of government schemes. Through networking activities and awareness programs, I will try to engage more gems and jewellery businesses with GJC. Having insight and knowhow of planning events, I will focus more on B2C exhibition so as to enhance consumer engagement. By virtue of hard work and dedication, I will always work for the betterment of the industry.
